CONFERENCE HIGHLIGHTS

Kathy Escamilla, PhD

Professor in the Division of Equity, Bilingualism and Biliteracy in the School of Education at the University of Colorado, Boulder. One of the most recognized authorities in the field of biliteracy development as a former member of the US National Reading Panel and current member, of Center for Applied Linguistics, CAL Board of Trustees 2018 – 2021.

Teaching in Two Languages in the Time of Pandemic: ¡Sí se puede!

Stephen Krashen, PhD

Professor Emeritus at the University of Southern California. Krashen's theory of second language acquisition has named him a world expert in the field of linguistics, specializing in research of non-English and bilingual language acquisition. His natural approach is based on the theory that language acquisition occurs only when students receive comprehensible input.

Can Distant Learning Impact Second Language Acquisition?

1 – 2- 3 Andrés

Latin Grammy-winning husband-wife team: Andrés and Christina. They have performed for audiences across the US and in Puerto Rico, Panama, Mexico and Colombia. "123 Andrés imparts the joy of language, music, and movement in a bilingual collection of songs that is story time and classroom-friendly." – American Library Association.
